Everyone is welcome at the public hearings to speak directly to the Senators and Representatives about redistricting. Our sole purpose is listening to learn how you want the standards governing redistricting to be implemented and how you think districts in your area can work best for all voters and constituents.

Meetings will convene promptly at the scheduled start time and will adjourn upon the completion of business or the scheduled end time, whichever occurs first. We will carefully budget time to hear as much public testimony as possible, and citizens are welcome to supplement the record with written materials. Please let us know if you plan to attend and if you wish to speak at the meeting, so we can arrange enough seating and allot the time.

If a special accommodation is needed (such as sign language, translation services or other accommodations) to participate in the meetings, please notify the Senate Committee on Reapportionment at (850) 487-5855 at least five (5) business days before the meeting so that accommodations may be made.

Please complete a form for each person who will attend. * = Required

RSVP Confirmation

Dear John Doe,

Thank you for submitting an RSVP to attend the public hearing. This is your opportunity to tell us how redistricting affects you and your community. We look forward to seeing you at the hearing below:

Thursday, July 12, 2011 - Daytona Beach

6:00 - 8:00 PM* (* or until completion of meeting, whichever is first.)

Florida State College at Jacksonville Downtown Campus

Submit Another RSVP

You indicated that you would like to speak at the meeting. We will do our best to make sure everyone has the opportunity to give input.

Meeting Location Map

If a special accommodation is needed (such as sign language, translation services or other accommodations) to participate in the meetings, please notify the Senate Committee on Reapportionment at (850) 487-5855 at least five (5) business days before the meeting so that accommodations may be made.

Another great way for you to participate in redistricting is to draw your own districts using the same tools and data the legislators and staff will use. Visit www.flsenate.gov/redistricting to learn about the District Builder web application hosted by the Florida Senate or go to www.floridaredistricting.org to learn about the My District Builder web application hosted by the Florida House. You can submit maps and bring them to the public hearings. It is one of the best ways to share ideas about drawing districts that work for your community and comply with federal and state law.

The Florida Legislature invites you to get actively involved in this fundamental exercise of democracy.

Sincerely,

Will W. Weatherford, House Redistricting Committee Chair

Don Gaetz, Senate Reapportionment Committee Chair

Reapportionment happens every ten years after the decennial census. Based on new population figures, 435 seats in the United States House of Representatives are redistributed among the 50 states. Each state is guaranteed at least one seat by the U.S. Constitution. On December 21, 2010, the Director of Census announced that Florida is entitled to 27 representatives in the U.S. House, an increase of two, effective with the general election in 2012.

Redistricting is the redrawing of district boundaries of congressional and state legislative electoral districts to adjust for various growth rates in different parts of the state. Districts determine which voters participate in which elections for choosing representatives in the U.S. House, State Senate, and State House.

Share Your Ideas and Opinions

Senate President Mike Haridopolos has challenged the Senate Reapportionment Committee to run the most open, transparent and interactive redistricting process in our state's history. Listening to voters and constituents is where it starts. New redistricting standards in the Florida Constitution require the Legislature to draw lines based on factors unrelated to party and incumbency. Public hearings to gather such information are now more important than ever before. This summer, the Senate and House will host more than two dozen joint public hearings around the state. Senators and Representatives want to hear from you before redrawing your districts to comply with federal and state law. President Haridopolos, Chairman Don Gaetz, Vice Chair Gwen Margolis and our entire membership invite you to get actively involved in this fundamental exercise of democracy. Plan to attend the public hearing in your area. You can also email comments or suggestions to RedistrictFlorida@flsenate.gov.

These initial maps are based on the testimony legislators heard from more than 1,600 people during a 26-city statewide listening tour held over the summer, the 157 publicly submitted maps the legislature received, and the public discussions committee members had during interim committee meetings. Records reflecting voters' insights about redistricting and making representative democracy work for their communities can be found on our Public Hearings page. The plans, maps, statistics, and downloads are available for all to see on the Submitted Plans page.

Senate President Mike Haridopolos has challenged the Senate Reapportionment Committee to conduct the most open, transparent, and interactive redistricting process in our state's history. New redistricting standards in the Florida Constitution require the Legislature to draw lines based on factors unrelated to party and incumbency. Therefore, the Committee began the process by listening to voters and constituents. Now that the Committee has incorporated the ideas and suggestions into proposed plans, legislators would like to hear what you have to say about these maps.

The Florida Senate has opened numerous lines of communication to make it easier, more accessible, and more efficient for Floridians to comment on the proposed maps. Public comment will be welcomed at the Committee's December 6 meeting in Tallahassee, but those who cannot attend are encouraged to submit their testimony by:

In partnership with the Florida Channel, the feedback received will be broadcast at the December 6 committee meeting, when the committee formally introduces the legislation. The committee will listen to as many of the comments as possible. The entire collection, including what is not aired during the meeting due to time constraints, will be posted on the Public Comments page.

Data provided by U.S. Census Bureau. Population Density: Includes Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia in population density rankings, 1 to 52. Apportionment: Apportionment is the process of dividing the 435 seats in the House of Representatives among the 50 states. Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia are not included. Alaska and Hawaii gained statehood in 1959. Arizona and New Mexico gained statehood in 1912. For apportionment, data before those periods are not reflected on the map. Congress did not reapportion in 1920. Therefore, the apportionment data shown for this decade replicates the data for 1910. There is no data reflected for the apportionment population in the 1920 "people per representative" chart.

Submission for Preclearance of Amendments 5 and 6

On March 29, 2011, the Florida House of Representatives and the Florida Senate jointly submitted an application for preclearance of Amendments 5 and 6 (Article III, Sections 21 and 20 of the Florida Constitution) to the United States Department of Justice (DOJ). In this application, the Legislature requested that DOJ preclear these amendments, under the interpretation that they are beneficial for preserving and enhancing the rights of minority voters. On May 31, 2011, the United States Department of Justice formally precleared the Amendments.

These maps are based on the testimony legislators heard from more than 1,600 people during a 26-city statewide listening tour held over the summer, the 157 publicly submitted maps the legislature received, and the public discussions committee members had during interim committee meetings. Records reflecting voters' insights about redistricting and making representative democracy work for their communities can be found on the Public Hearings page

When the proposed committee bills were published, the Committee provided numerous ways to comment, including a toll-free number, email, Twitter, and Facebook. The committee heard from more than 600 citizens. Much of the direct feedback was played at the December 6 committee meeting before the first votes were taken on plans. Plans, maps, statistics, and downloads are available for all plans drawn by legislators, staff, or the public on the Submitted Plans page.

Senate President Mike Haridopolos has challenged the Senate Reapportionment Committee to conduct the most open, transparent, and interactive redistricting process in our state's history. New redistricting standards in the Florida Constitution require the Legislature to draw lines based on factors unrelated to party and incumbency. Therefore, the Committee began the process by listening to voters and constituents. Throughout the process, the Committee intends to continue this open, interactive process of engaging the public. Citizens and interest groups are encouraged to access frequently updated materials here on this website, attend committee meetings to testify, draw and submit maps, send critiques or suggestions to the Committee via RedistrictFlorida@flsenate.gov, or communicate with their own Senators directly.

Redistricting Maps Drawn by the Florida Legislature

As provided in Art. III, s. 16\(d\) of the State Constitution, the Legislature will reconvene March 14-28, 2012, to adopt a joint resolution of apportionment conforming to the judgment of the Florida Supreme Court that 8 of 40 Senate districts are invalid. The Court's opinion and other documents relating to the Apportionment case are posted on the Florida Supreme Court's website.

On February 9, the Legislature passed new congressional, state senate, and state house maps based on the 2010 Census and standards in federal and state law.

Maps Drawn for the Extraordinary Apportionment Session

On Thursday, March 22, the Senate passed an apportionment plan that conforms to the judgment of the Supreme Court. The plan remedies constitutional problems the Court found in 8 of the 40 senate districts previously passed by the Legislature, addresses the City of Lakeland's issue, and rennumbers the districts in an incumbent-neutral manner. The Court's opinion and other documents relating to the Apportionment case are posted on the Florida Supreme Court's website.

Redistricting Maps Enacted by the Florida Legislature

On February 9, the Legislature passed new congressional, state senate, and state house maps based on the 2010 Census and standards in federal and state law. The newly enacted congressional and state house districts were submitted to the United States Department of Justice for preclearance on March 13. Electronic copies of the entire submission are available on the Legal Submissions page.
